Summit County Executive Russell M. Pry Rotates Room with a View Artists, 100 Local Artists Participate in Program to Date

In early-January 2010, Summit County Executive Russell M. Pry lined the walls of his eighth floor, conference room with pieces of art created by Akron artists Trey Berry, Lynda Rimke and Ron White.

The exhibit is yet another round of art being showcased in Executive Pry's Room with a View program, an initiative that celebrates and recognizes local artists and gives their work exposure in the public setting. This is the 22nd exhibit in the series.

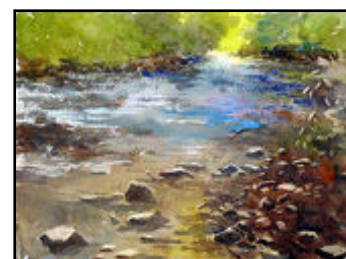

"The art on display is expressive and thought provoking," stated County Executive Russell M. Pry. "Together, the art forms a diverse exhibit of talent."

The exhibit features 14 pieces of art work. Mediums used to create the works range from charcoal, watercolors, oils, plaster and more.

The first Room with a View exhibit opened in January 2003. Since its inception, a total of 100 Summit County artists have participated in the program.

"The local art community has really taken to this program," added Pry. "In turn, our office has grown more and more aware of the wealth of artistic talent that exists throughout Summit County.

Throughout the past seven years, the County of Summit Executive's Office has featured the artistic talents of students at Miller-South School for the Visual and Performing Arts, individuals involved in the Hattie Larlham Creative Arts Program, emerging local artists, nationally renowned artists, senior citizens and more.
